

The Friends of the Bronxville Public Library invite you to join us for Un Viaggio in Italia

Roman Holiday
January 16, 2pm

Shot entirely on location in Rome, this delightful story of a princess finding her inner adventurer introduced Audrey Hepburn to America (and won her an Oscar). Gregory Peck is the reporter who, along with the rest of us, falls for her. Dalton Trumbo, blacklisted at the time, wrote the script under a pseudonym and was awarded a posthumous Academy Award in 1993. (1953)

A Room with a View
February 13, 2pm

How can you lose with this cast? Helena Bonham Carter, Maggie Smith, Denholm Elliot, Judi Dench, and Daniel Day-Lewis. Another story about finding love and freedom in Italy, this time in Florence. An Edwardian tale adapted from the E. M. Forster book, this radiant film is a Merchant/Ivory masterpiece. (1985)

Cinema Paradiso
March 6, 2pm

A moving tribute to the power and magic of movies, this film by Giuseppe Tornatore is a coming of age story set in post-war Sicily. The hero, a successful filmmaker, looks back on his life in a little town and on his friendship with the projectionist who helped him come to understand life. A beautiful and romantic film. In Italian, with subtitles. (1988)

Bronxville Public Library—Yeager Room
All shows Saturdays at 2pm. Free admission.